CAN'T JUDGE WAR, PRESIDENT ASSERTS

Tells Ministers That Outcome Must Be Awaited Before Judgment.

Washington, April 8.—In a speech before the Mapping and Census conference of the Methodist Protestant church in session here last night, President Wilson said it was his belief that no man was wise enough to pronounce judgment on the European war at this time.

"But," he added, "we can all hold our spirits in readiness to accept the truth when it is revealed to us in the outcome of this titanic struggle."

The president reminded the delegates that in transacting the business of their church they were like the men in charge of the nation's government, in reality handling "the phases of the day."

"You are handling the affairs of the church as they stand under the treatment of the men of your generation," he said. "But of them lie the eternal principles which you are trying to exemplify in the life of the church. Back of us here in the government lie the eternal principles of the righteousness which, in my conviction, they do not derive from ourselves, but from the same source from which a great church derives its inspiration and authority."

"It seemed to me that it was worth saying something like this: These are days of very great perplexity, when a great cloud of trouble hangs and broods over the greater part of the world. It seems as if great, blind material forces had been released, which had for long been held in leash and restraint. And yet, underneath that you can see the strong impulses of great ideals."

"It would be impossible for men to go through what men are going through on the battlefields of Europe—to go through the present dark night of their terrible struggle—if it were not that they saw, or thought they saw, the broadening of light where the morning sun should come up, and believed that they were waiting each on his side of the contest, for some eternal principle of right."

"Then, all about them, all about us, there sits the silent, waiting tribunal which is going to utter the ultimate judgment upon this struggle, the great tribunal of the opinion of the world, and I fancy I see, I hope that I see, I pray that it may be that I do truly see great spiritual forces lying waiting for the outcome of this thing to assert themselves, and asserting themselves even now, to enlighten our judgment and steady our spirits."

"A man is wise enough to pronounce judgment, but we can all hold our spirits in readiness to accept the truth when it dawns on us and is revealed to us in the outcome of this titanic struggle."

"You will see that it is only in such general terms that one can speak on the midst of a confused world, as I have already said, no man has the key to this outcome, no man can see his own spirit prepared to contribute to the net result when the outcome displays itself."

"That is the reason I said to a body of men here only a few nights ago that I welcome the atmosphere which these solemn assessments of the human spirit bring to Washington. For this is the place of assessment. In one sense Washington is not even a part of the United States. It is where everybody else comes and sooner or later speaks his mind about the United States and about many outlying parts of the world."

"Mr. Bryan and I are constantly auditors to what I dare say is a large part of the opinion of the world. To judge by the time it takes to express it, I think it is a very large part, and to judge by the variety and contrariety of it, I dare say it is a fair cross section of what men are thinking about."

Secretary Bryan followed the president with an address of welcome to the visiting clergy. His remarks were confined strictly to a discussion of "the three great relationships," which he characterized as "government, society, and religion, or man's relation to God." Great and important as all these relationships were, Mr. Bryan said he believed religion was most imperative to the welfare of a nation.

Men in Battle Would Make Mammoth Parade

Berlin, April 8.—To visualize the number of Russian prisoners and guns taken by von Hindenburg in the so-called "Winter Battle" to the east of the Masurian Lakes, one of the German papers has figured out what a great procession they would make.

If the 104,000 prisoners, the 200 pieces of artillery, and the 2,000 wagons, it says, were to form a procession with four men abreast, with the artillery and wagons in usual marching order, they would reach 112 miles in length. It would require thirty hours for such a procession to pass a given point. In the same way it is figured that all the prisoners of war now held by Germany—a total of 180,000 men—would make a procession 625 miles long.

Billy Sunday refused an offer of $1,000 to deliver his "booster" sermon once in Providence, R. I., in a prohibition campaign.

LEAVES MILLIONS TO PRESIDENT OF WOMEN'S COLLEGE

Baltimore, April 8.—Miss Mary Carey Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr college, will receive the bulk of the $10,000,000 estate left by her friend, Miss Mary Elizabeth Garrett, who was the daughter of John W. Garrett, late president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

This was disclosed yesterday by the probating of Miss Garrett's will in the Orphans' court here. Miss Thomas is the residuary legatee and also executrix under the will.

Had Miss Garrett survived Miss Thomas, Johns Hopkins University would have received the residue of her estate, under the provisions of the will anticipating such a contingency. Compliance with certain conditions were required, however, before the property would pass to the university. It was provided that if the university should disregard these conditions the residue should go to the Peabody Institute.

No Bequest to Bryn Mawr
Bryn Mawr College of which Miss Garrett was a graduate, receives no bequest. The terms of the will, however, indicate that Miss Thomas and Miss Garrett who had been close friends for years, had an understanding according to which the college will receive substantial benefits.

Miss Garrett's estate consists chiefly of realty in this city, Baltimore county and Garrett county, and of stocks, largely inherited by Miss Garrett from her father.

Miss Garrett's will provided for two contingencies. One part of it disposes of the estates in the event that Miss Garrett should die before Miss Thomas. That provision, of course, is effective. The other, which is not effective, disposes of the estate in case Miss Garrett should survive Miss Thomas.

The will, in a long instrument, with every bequest and devise so specifically provided for that there is little doubt as to the intentions of the testatrix.

Miss Thomas, accompanied by D. K. Este Fisher, a friend of Miss Garrett, and her lawyer, has qualified as executrix of the will. She furnished a bond in the sum of $900, a nominal figure, as the will provided that no bond should be necessary.

LITCHFIELD COUNTY NEWS.
Sea Gull at Canaan.
C. H. Pease of Canaan writes as follows: "A fine big white sea gull is keeping company with a flock of wild black ducks on the overflowed flats in front of my house now. He has a morsel of something to eat, and four crows have surrounded him as he stands on some floating ice eating, but they do not quite dare to take it away from him—when he drives at them they back off. We do not have calls from sea gulls every day, though we see several during the year."

The defendant did not contest the granting of the decree but was interested in the custody of his two children. Judge Reed gave the custody of the children to the mother of the defendant.

HUMAN INTEREST NOTES FOUND IN THE LATEST WAR BULLETINS

Vogues District Made 'Dry'
Paris, April 9.—The French press follows interestingly the English prohibition campaign which the opponents of alcohol hope will be extended here beyond assistance to 2 "intoxicants" containing a high percentage of spirit.

The Temps prints tonight a Belfort dispatch stating that the General commanding the Vosges army has forbidden, with Joffre's approval, the sale, circulation, and consumption of all alcoholic drinks, including liquors and appetizers, throughout the district under his command. Infractions of this order are punishable by court-martial.

London Doubts Peace Talk
London, April 9.—A diplomatic report which has caused immense interest is that from Rome to the effect that Austria is seeking a separate peace with Russia. This lack of confidence in the peace talks, as it is not considered likely that Germany would be sending reinforcements to the Carpathians if there were any doubt of Austria's loyalty to her allies.

Italy takes the matter more seriously than the other nations, for should it prove to be true it would end her hopes of gaining territorial accessions from Austria. However, the stubborn way in which Austria is resisting the Russian advance in the Carpathians seems to contradict the suggestion that she is ready to seek peace at Russia's terms.

Turks Enroll Immigrants

London, April 9.—An trade promulgated today by the Sultan of Turkey authorizes the Ministry of War to call out all men from 19 to 20 years of age capable of bearing arms, but who heretofore were not liable for service in the Turkish army, and the maintenance of order. Power also is given to the Ministry to enroll for military service all immigrants for the purpose of mobilization.

This information was contained in a dispatch received today by Reuters' Telegram Company from Constantinople.

Germany Loses Students

Berlin, April 9.—A German professor who has just arrived from Leipzig says no professor in Germany is suffering more than his own. Not only has the number of German students decreased, owing to the war, but the number of foreign students has fallen off from 20 per cent. to 10 per cent. In technical colleges, while at ordinary universities the decrease is still greater.

Many professors are either emigrating to America or seeking employment in neutral countries.

Lauds American Hospital

Paris, April 9.—The Guerre Sociale pays a tribute to the American Hospital organization at Le Tremblay, an eastern suburb of Paris.

Referring to complaints about the installation of certain temporary hospitals, the writer advises the officials responsible to visit Le Tremblay, where "American efficiency sets them a valuable example."

Gen. Pau Confident

Naples, April 9.—General Pau of the French Army, who has been on a mission to Petrograd and the Balkan capitals, has arrived here on his way to Rome and Paris. When asked by an interviewer whether it was true that Russian, Serbian and Montenegrin would join with Great Britain and France in a fierce simultaneous attack in an effort to crush Germany and Austria he declined to answer.

Referring to the Dardanelles operations, General Pau expressed the belief that the Anglo-French fleet would force a passage as soon as preparations were completed for a combined attack by land and sea.

Women Chauffeurs At Front

Paris, April 9.—The Matin announces the organization of a women's automobile club which intends to enlist for military work all women possessing a driver's license.

The organizers of the movement declare that these military female chauffeurs will not be seen in the streets of Paris, but will collaborate with the troops on the front line.

German Officers In Rome

Rome, April 9.—The German officers who were stopped by the Italian authorities in Brindisi, on their way to see the German Minister of War, have been released.
